AT a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the St. Louis Trust Company, held Monday, December 23, 1801, the following memorial was unanimously adopted:

Death has again laid his ley hand upon us and claimed as a victim one of our brightest and best.

WILLIAM LEE HUSE,

william LEE HUSE,
who actively aided in organizing and who was one of the incorporators of this company, continuously a member of its Beard of Directors from its inception, and of its Executive Committee, died succienty of heart failure at his home in Westim-reland place, in this city, at 120 o'clock, Monday morning, December 21, 1801.
The shock was whelly unexpected, as only a few hours previously he publicly appeared in his usual vigorous health. The blow is a severe one to this company, and especially to this Board of Directors, who keenly see the loss of his wise, genial and kindly companionship, his marked ability in all business artains, and his ever-ready energy and helprulpess.

He was an enterprising, rubile-rultical and valuable edition; the originator and manager of many enterprises beneficial to his fellowmen, and his loss to cur entire community is quite as great as to us. He was a dispenser of manifold secret churities; the exemplar of numerous shining ritues; a pattern in home, as well as in business life, as generous and kind as he was unswerving in joyalty and integrity. Many recipients of his beneficent goodness will secretly unite with us in mourning his death.

We extend our heartfelt sympathies to his family, and to our community at large.

HOLIDAY SHOPPING AT UNION MARKET.

Christmas Trade Largest Ever Known in the History of the Old Mart.

GREAT DEMAND FOR TURKEYS.

Estimated That 45,000 Pounds Will Be Required-Price Is Slightly Higher Owing to Cold Weather.

Union Market yesterday presented a busy picture of the holiday season. The stal s were filled to their capacity with holiday offerings and were decorated with helly and evergreens. The street which divides the main building from the fish market was filled with Christmas trees of all sizes and varieties, giving it the appearance of a miniature forest.

"Never before in the history of the market has the demand for Chritsmas turkeys been so great," said M. J. Hagerty, who has been a dealer in the market since it was first established, "and it will take fully 45,000 pounds to supply the demands of today and to-morrow. The price has advanced slightly owing to the cold weather, and the inability of the farmers to prepare their shipments in time for the trade." The sales of nuts has been very large. Yesterday more than 15,000 pounds of the different varieties were sold by the dealers. A large demand is reported for young pigs this year. They range in price from $2 to Merchants Say the Holiday Busi-$2.50, and are delivered dressed and stuffed ready for the oven. Another novelty which attracted the attention of the shoppers was a shipment of twelve large grizzly bears. They were received yesterday and were quickly bought up by the stewards of the large hotels and clubs at 30 cents a pound. The supply of vegetables, fruits and other staples is abundant, and except for the slight rise on poultry the prices are normal ness Has Never Been Better in St. Louis.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS ARE OUT IN FORCE,

BROADWAY A SEA OF HUMANITY.

Estimated Value of Presents Sold Yesterday Is $500,000-Express Companies Have Never Before Been So Busy.

Never before, since Santa Claus first began coming to St. Louis, has the shopping district presented a ousier scene than yes-terday. Merchants declare their business for Christmas this year is the greatest in the history of the city.

Usually the majority of buyers lay in their stock of gifts a week or more in advance of Christmas, but this year climatic conditions prevented all but the bravest to postpone their purchases until yesterday.

The mild weather brought everybody from home, and although the streets were in a condition better calculated for sailing than walking, nobody seemed discomfited by the water and mud and slush. From early morning until the closing of the great stores througs of persons crowded the downtown streets until they were well. downtown streets until they were wellnigh impassable. Show windows, with their attractive dis-

Show windows, with their attractive displays, caused a congestion of the shoppers, until, in many instances, the police were compelled to clear the walks that foot traffic might be made possible.

Of course, the little fellows, who composed no small part of the crowd, lingered long at the windows in which Santa Claus was holding receptions, and it was with difficulty that they could be made to remove their eager gaze from the juddy countenance and the heavy, gray furs of the old fellow, who is the dearest friend in the world at this season.

Looking north on Broedway from Olive street there were thousands upon thousands of persons elbowing their way through the crowd, striving to gain entrance to stores or struggling to get a better view of the window, offerings. It was a tedlous task, but the happy faces of those who would ordinarily regard the struggles as a hardehin pays evidence that a tedious task, but the happy faces of those who would ordinarily regard the struggle as a hardship, gave evidence that the purpose upon which they were bent was in itself full remuneration for the jostling they received and for the damp feet and bedraggied clothing which were the penalties for venturing forth on the flithy streets.

Tired clerks fully realized that the holiday season was in full swing, and it is a safe guess that none of them had to be rocked to sleep when they reached their homes late at night. Some of them probably dreamed of people and money and goods until early this morning, when there will be a repetition of the rush and bustle of the first business day of the week.

All Owntown Streets Crowded.

Nor was the crowd confined to Broadway.

Nor was the crowd confined to Broadway. All of the downtown streets were congested as never before during the holiday season. Lean persons with fat purses and fat persons with lean pocketbooks and others with no purses or money brushed elbows all day long.

Youngsters with only a few pennies or dimes to spend fought for recognition from the clerks as vigorously as those whose purchasses were only limited by their desires, and probably their humble purchases afforded as much delight to them and will carry as much joy to the recipients as the rich gifts of those who rode to the great stores in carriages and spent hundreds of dollars.

The value of the holiday goods disposed of yesterday is estimated at $50,000, and there was a continuous stream of money from pocketbook to till from early morning until closing time. Express Companies Busy.

While St. Louis merchants are enjoying the greatest holiday trade they have ever known, there is no better evidence of the fact than could be obtained by a visit to the express offices. Express agents are responsible for the statement that their Christmas business has never been so great.

Christmas business has never been so great.

Thousands and thousands of packages, destined for friends, relatives and sweethearts in other parts of the country—some for foreign lands—have been received in the last three weeks at the express offices for shipment. Those going the shorter distances, of course, have been received in the last two or three days, but the agents say that it now requires more time to ship a package 100 miles than it does in ordinary season to send one 200 miles. Every package is checked and entered in two or three different books and the express company clerks, with extra forces added, have been working day and night to catch up with the business.

At the general post office and substations the stamp and registered mail departments have been rushed. Carriers are loaded down with packages and the outgoing mail bags are filled with a greater variety of presents than is the always full sack which must accompany a perfect picture of Santa Ciaus.

KANSAS FEEDING HOGS WHEAT. No Grain From That State Is Be-. ing Marketed.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 23.—Instead of re-ceiving from 100 to 200 cars of wheat daily from Kansas, there is scarcely a car coming through this gateway. It was an-nounced on 'change to-day that not a bushel was coming from Kansas, whereas unel was coming from Kansas, whereas under normal conditions the receipts should run from 50 to 150 cars per day.

N. P. Simonds, at the head of the largest operating house here, declared that Kansas was pouring its wheat into the hog pens.

"It is an alarming state of hafairs when we consider what is going on in the richest wheat State in this beli. It is contributing nothing for the dinner table. Corn it ruled none, yet with the greatest wheat yield in its agricultural history it is sendling absolutely none to market, while Europe is eating black bread, and, worse, the Kansas hog, with the steer, is living on whole wheat. The movement of Kansas wheat has virtually stopped. Animals are better off than some people. What is true of Kansas is almost entirely true of Oklahoma."

The Colonel Also Took Something.

The Colonel Also Took Something.
From the Washington Post.
One of the campaign stories that floated through the cloakroom yesterday related to Senator Fairbanks of Indiana and Governor Shaw of Iowa. According to the story these two orators were stumping Kentucky. After a successful meeting the Kentucky Colonel who had the two Republican statesmen in charge invited them into the hotel barroom for some refreshments.

"What'll you have?" he asked Senator Fairbanks.

"A little cold Apollinaris," was the reply. "And you?" said the host to Governor Shaw.

"And you? so d the nost to Governor Shaw.
"I think I will have a glass of butter-milk."
The bartender turned to the Kentuckian. "What shall I give you, Colonel?" he asked. The Kentucky gentleman heaved a long sigh. "Under the circumstances." he said, "I think you can give me a piece of ple."
